Whatever rules you want to change on evictions, don't do it. Leave it like it was before covid.

My landlord always gets her money on time and I think maybe a few times I was late but told her and paid the late fee. She did not raise my rent for 6 years but did it last year. She said that because of the canceling of evictions and now the court delays of getting people out that she had to cover the cost somehow or she would have to sell the house.

This is not fair to people like me who pay their rent and just want to raise a family in peace. I have enough problems without worrying about a place to stay. These rules you want to change on evictions is hurting us people who pay their rent. I am asking that you make it like it was in the past. I had no problems in the past with renting. If I have to get a new landlord then I know my rent will go up so much I wont be able to pay it.
